As long as there is a horizon in this heart

As long as you don't lose the desire to laugh

As long as some star shines in our sky

Do not give up don't get tired of living

Everything will be fine, everything will be fine everything, everything, everything will be fine

While there are those who denounce the sidewalks, injustice and unfulfilled promises

As long as there is another step in your ladder

Don't stop don't leave it without going up

As long it dawns in every village

While there is still a song to write

As long as you feel it's worth it

Do not shut up, don't stay without saying

Everything will be fine, everything will be fine, everything, everything, everything will be fine

Everything will be fine, everything will be fine, everything, everything, everything will be fine

Somehow, I know that everything, everything will be fine

There are windows in the middle of my city

There are words in the air that make us trust and certainties that give us freedom that tell us

About utopias that spread courage that show us a way to go

Everything will be fine, everything will be fine, everything, everything, everything will be fine

Everything will be fine, everything will be fine, everything, everything, everything will be fine

Some Everything will be fine, everything will be fine, everything, everything, everything will be fine

Everything will be fine, everything will be fine, everything, everything... repeat the paragraph
